The chairperson is not permitted to employ their spouse or any relative within the third-degree, by blood or marriage, to fill any position at the TISS.

Chapter III: Operations and Supervision

Article 20 The TISS shall draft development objectives and plans and, after they have been approved by the board of directors, submit them to the supervisory authority to be reviewed to obtain approval.

The TISS shall formulate an annual business plan and an associated budget. After these have been approved by the board of directors they shall be submitted to the supervisory authority for future reference.

Article 21 The supervisory jurisdiction of the supervisory authority over the TISS comprises the following:

1. Reviewing and approving the development objectives and plans.
2. Reviewing and approving, or filing for future reference, TISS regulations, the annual business plan and budget, the results of its annual operations, and its final accounts report.
3. Examination of its assets and financial status.
4. Evaluation of its business performance.
5. Recommendations regarding appointments and dismissal of board members and supervisors.
6. If any board member or supervisor violates any ordinances while undertaking TISS business, the supervisory agency may take necessary disciplinary action.
7. Imposition of revocation, modifications, cancellations, demand for improvements within a prescribed time, suspension or termination of operations, or other disciplinary actions at any time that the TISS acts in violation of the Constitution or any law, regulations, or order.
8. Review and approval of the disposal of real estate owned by the TISS or the creation of any encumbrance involving its real estate.
9. Any other supervisory action required by and in accordance with the law.

Article 22 The supervisory authority shall invite representatives of related organizations, academics and experts, and impartial citizens to conduct performance reviews of the TISS. It is not permitted for the number of academics, experts, and impartial citizens to comprise less than one-half of the total number of persons.

The number of persons of any one gender invited to conduct the performance review referred to in the previous paragraph is not permitted to be less than one-third of the total number of people conducting a review.

Regulations governing the eligibility criteria to be a reviewer, the selection and appointment procedure, the manner of assessment, process, and other related matters pertaining to the performance review referred to in Paragraph 1 shall be prescribed by the supervisory agency.

The content of the performance review is as follows:

1. Assessment of the results of the TISS annual operations.
2. Evaluation of the Center's business performance and the rate at which it is achieving its objectives.
3. The proportion of the TISS annual funding achieved by its own fundraising.
4. The TISS proposals for budget appropriations.
5. Other pertinent matters.

Chapter IV: Accounting and Finance

Article 23 The accounting year of the TISS shall be the same as that of the central government.

The TISS accounting system shall be formulated in accordance with the pertinent laws and regulations governing the setting up of accounting systems in non-departmental public bodies.

The financial reports of the TISS shall be checked and certified by a CPA commissioned to do so.

Article 24 Within three months after the end of each accounting year, the TISS shall commission an accountant to check and certify the results of its annual operations and its final accounts report, then submit these to the board of directors for due consideration. After all three supervisors have approved these, they shall be submitted to the supervisory authority for future reference and copies sent to an auditing agency. The auditing agency may audit the final accounts report referred to in the previous paragraph; it may send the results of the audit to the supervisory authority or to another related authority for any necessary further action.

Article 25 In the year in which it is established the funding appropriated to the TISS by the government may be adjusted by the supervisory authority, in response to circumstances, within the limit of its original budget, without being subject to the provisions of Articles 62 and 63 of the Budget Act.

Article 26 When the TISS requires the use of public property for its operations, it may purchase that public property, or it may be donated, leased, or provided for use free of charge by a government agency. Such a donation is not subject to the provisions of Article 25 of the Land Act, Article 28 and Article 60 of the National Property Act, and other relevant ordinances governing local government management of public property. For land purchased in accordance with the previous paragraph, the assessed present land value shall be used as the standard purchase cost. The current valuation for that year provided by the tax collection authority shall be used as the standard for the cost to pay for constructional improvements on any land. If no such current valuation is available, an estimate of the value made by a public property management authority shall be used as the standard value.

Any property purchased by the TISS for a designated use with an approved budget allocation from a government agency is categorized as public property.

With the exception of public property leased or provided for use free of charge, as referred to in Paragraph 1, and the public owned property referred to in the previous paragraph, all property acquired by the TISS becomes its property.

For the public property provided for use free of charge referred to in Paragraph 1 and the public property referred to in Paragraph 3, the TISS is registered as the manager of the property. Any profit generated is categorized as income of the TISS and is not subject to the restrictions set out in Article 7, Paragraph 1 of the National Property Act and in the relevant provisions of ordinances governing local government management of public property. Regulations governing matters related to the management, and use of such property, and any associated profit shall be prescribed by the supervisory authority.

When public property is no longer used, its management shall be handed over to the public property management agency at each level of government.

When the TISS no longer needs to use publicly owned real estate that it acquired as a donation, it shall return it to the agency that made the donation and the TISS is not permitted to dispose of such real estate at its own discretion

Article 27 All approved funding appropriated to the TISS by any government agency shall be handled in accordance with statutory budget procedures and be audited and supervised.

In any year that such approved funding appropriated by a government agency exceeds 50% of the TISS annual budget revenue, the supervisory authority shall send the annual budget documents to the Legislative Yuan for it to deliberate on.

The TISS shall formulate regulations governing management of income and expenditure for its own income sources and the use of that income, and it shall submit the regulations to the supervisory authority for future reference.

Article 28 All debts incurred by the TISS are restricted to being self-liquidating in nature and shall be submitted to the supervisory authority beforehand to be reviewed to obtain approval. If the results of implementation of the budget raise any concerns arise that self-liquidation is not possible, an examination of the situation shall immediately be undertaken and improvement measures be proposed, and submitted to the supervisory authority to be reviewed to obtain approval.

Article 29 With the exception of circumstances stipulated in any treaty or agreement that the Republic of China has entered into, or in Article 4, Paragraph 1 of the Government Procurement Act which shall be governed by the associated provisions, the TISS procurement operations shall be based on the principles of transparency and fairness, and they are not subject to the provisions of the Government Procurement Act. The TISS implementation regulations governing its procurement operations shall be submitted to the supervisory authority to be reviewed to obtain approval.

If the procurements referred to in the previous paragraph which must be handled in accordance with the provisions of Article 4 Paragraph 1 of the Government Procurement Act are subject to the provisions of any other laws or regulations, the provisions of those other laws or regulations shall apply.

Article 30 Any information about the TISS shall be made public in accordance with the pertinent regulations of the Freedom of Government Information Law; its annual financial reports, details of its business activities that year, and its annual performance review reports shall proactively be made public.

The supervisory authority shall submit an analysis report of the annual performance review reports referred to in the previous paragraph to the Legislative Yuan for archiving. When necessary, the Legislative Yuan may require the head of the supervisory authority, together with the TISS chairperson, and its chief executive officer, or a chief administrator associated with the matter being examined to personally go to the Legislative Yuan to provide a report on the state of operations and answer questions raised.

Chapter V: Supplementary Provisions

Article 31 A person objection to an adjudication given by the TISS may file an administrative appeal to the competent supervisory authority in accordance with the Administrative Appeal Act.

Article 32 If changes in circumstances or poor performance reviews make it impossible for the TISS to achieve the objectives it was set up for, it shall be dissolved by the supervisory authority after it submits a report to the Executive Yuan and approval is given.

If it is dissolved, the contracts of all personnel shall be terminated, and its remaining assets shall fall within the jurisdiction of the national treasury; and any associated rights and responsibilities shall be taken on by the supervisory agency.

Article 33 The date of effect of this Act shall be set by the Executive Yuan.
